

IDEAL CLIENT PROFILER

BEFORE	DEMOGRAPHICS/INTERESTS	AFTER
Have: Think: Time. Money. Access. Knowledge. Network. Experience.	What traits are common among my ideal, aspirational clients? any device - football fans who bet live, Web3-curious users with Phantom/MetaMask wallets, Tight-knit league community followers, sport.fun , polymarket/kalshi users , live bettors on Bet365/DraftKings 20-40 younger people that wants to make money on live betting	Have: How does their Before state change after encountering your solution.
Feel: Consequences of the Before Haves.	PREVIOUS ACTIONS/PURCHASES What investments have they already made? What's their "sunk cost?" polymarket/kalshi betting	Feel: How do they now feel after experiencing the Haves of your solution.
Average Day: Average behaviour on a day to day look like.		Average Day: What does their new lifestyle look like?
Status: Where are these people in the their lives today. What is the transition that they are experiencing.	KEY PURCHASE DRIVERS What causes them to take action or would need to be true to enable action?	Status: How does their life status change? How does the new state of their life look like?
CONTRARIAN NARRATIVE	VILLAIN	SLOGAN
What are certain narratives that you believe to be true that the rest of the market hasn't caught on to yet?all bookies coming on chain.live betting bigger than pre match betting.why not on chain What are trends that you see shaping up that have yet to materialize into trends? oracles , on chain,humans in stadium + ai best source	The most potent element of a brand story. Who is an external villain standing in the way of your customer's dream life? A good villain is: - A root cause of a problem (Ex: Taxes aren't a villain, inefficient governments are) - Relatable - Singular (Only one villain in your brand story) - Should be real	What are the rally cries that bring your community together?

UNFUNGIBLE